

There's really five companies that control 90 percent of what we read, see and hear. It's not healthy for our democracy. Too few people owned too many media organizations.